Major-General Douglas Wimberley – Scottish Soldier, Volume II (Privately Bound Manuscript). A remarkable, privately bound copy of Scottish Soldier, Volume II by Major-General Douglas Wimberley — a personal and unpublished memoir recounting his experiences during the Second World War, including his command of the 51st Highland Division in North Africa and the Sicily Campaign.

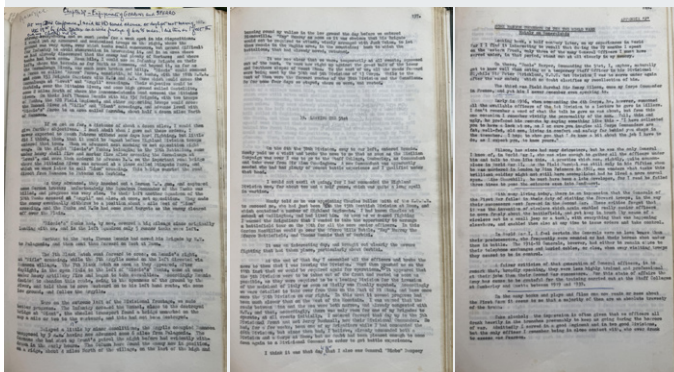

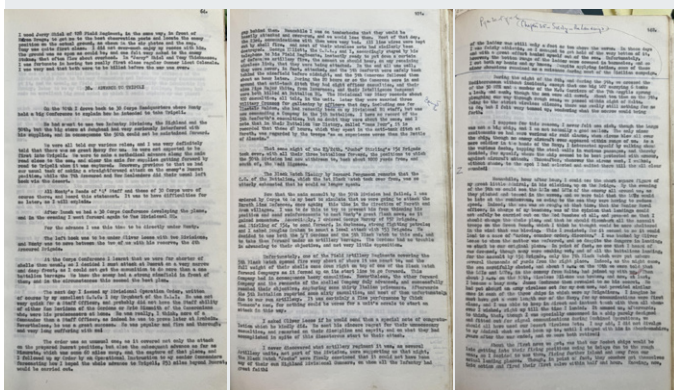

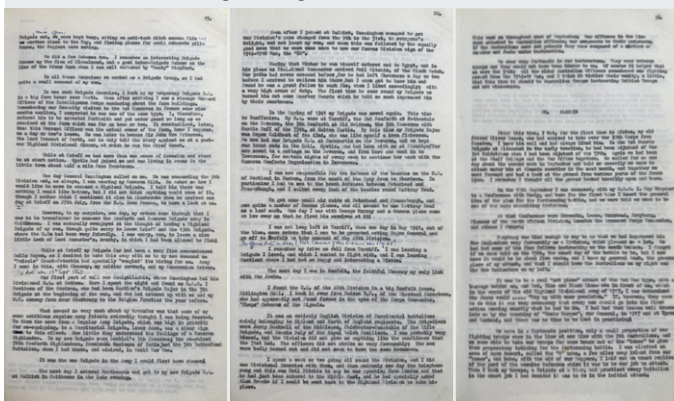

This volume contains numerous handwritten annotations and corrections by the author, as well as maps and drawings illustrating specific battles and operations. Of notable provenance, Wimberley lent a copy of this memoir to Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery, whose typed copy of his note is mounted to the front, reads: "It has been a great privilege to be allowed to read this private story, the more so as it is written by one of my best Divisional Generals. It gives a picture of the Scottish soldier, a grand fighting man, as I know well. To me it has been intensely interesting to hear the point of view of a Divisional Commander regarding the Battle of Alamein, and the subsequent operations of the Eighth Army in the desert campaign and in Sicily."

A deeply personal and insightful history, the memoir traces Wimberley's military career from 1939 then through his key wartime commands, culminating in his appointment as Commandant of the Staff College, Camberley.

An exceptional piece of military history offering a rare first-hand account from one of Britain's distinguished divisional commanders.

Great Britain 1877.

Advertising cover for the "Catholic Times & Catholic Opinion" published every Friday - price 1d. Cover bears a penny rose red adhesive plate 202 tied to cover by a Liverpool "466" numeral for AU 13 1877, addressed to Edinburgh with Edinb & Carstairs Sorting Tender cds on reverse for the following day.

A newspaper known as the "Northern Press" was barely existing, when in 1867, it was taken over by Father James Nugent of Liverpool, renaming it "The Catholic Times" and making it the most widely read Catholic paper in England. Printed for many years by the boys of the refuge he had founded in Liverpool, when it became a profit-earning paper, it helped support this work of charity. Offices were opened in Manchester and London. Father Lockhart edited for some years the newspaper "Catholic Opinion", a penny paper giving extracts from the Catholic press at home and abroad. After his death it was amalgamated with the "Catholic Times" to form "The Catholic Times & Catholic Opinion".
